
Erdington Leisure Centre

Project Description

Nolan Associates are the Structural and Civil Engineering consultants responsible for the design of the new leisure centre building which has taken just over a year to construct. It has opened almost a month ahead of schedule and on budget.

The building was a steel framed structure with reinforced concrete foundations and pool.

ISG were the contractors.

The £7.5million replacement of Erdington's leisure centre is part of a city wide investment of nearly £40million by Birmingham City Council and is the first of four new complexes to be completed.

Birmingham Community Leisure Trust (BCLT), working in partnership with Birmingham City Council (BCC), have overseen the project and will manage the new centre once it opens its doors.

Client	Birmingham Community Leisure Trust
Contractor	ISG
Architect	Calderpeel Architects
Value	£7.7 million
